February's Sentinel has some good information on the Annual Safety Survey. I wish this had been available sometime in December/January when most of us were filling it out.

The weather is starting to warm but Gulf waters are still cold and dangerous as recent events have shown. Only 1 of 4 exceptional athletes (2 pro football and 2 USF football) survived extended time in the cold Gulf waters. The Gulf waters can be dangerous any time but even more so when the water is cold.

Thunderstorm season will soon be upon us, so now is the time to review dangerous weather protocols to be used in outdoor events.

I ask everyone to take any safety issue report serious no matter who the sources is. Safety is priority one!! Plus you never know when someone from Wing, Region, National, or the USAF may be the one giving the report and testing out response.

Semper Vigilans

The CAP Safety Policy is to minimize the risks faced by our membership in the performance of their volunteer duties. (<http://members.gocivilairpatrol.com/safety/>)
